RUSTING IN A MARSH

The Garbage Crematory Machinery.

STARTLING DISCLOSURE

Apparatus Costing $16,000 and Belonging to the Territory Being Ruined.

In a salty marsh in the district of Kakaako there stands exposed to the elements sixteen thousand dollars' worth of valuable machinery belonging to the Territory, and shipped from the States for the Board of Health.

This valuable machinery comprises the outfit for reducing the garbage of Honolulu to fertilizer and ridding it of its disease breeding factors. In other words, it is the garbage crematory which the Board of Health and the public clamored for during the exciting days of the plague epidemic.

A rush order was sent to the Mainland for the valuable machinery, and in due course of time it arrived, and was sent down to the salty, mul marsh, where rust has every opportunity to eat its way through the material and make it useless.

It is true that there is no appropriation to erect a building over the machinery and start the crematory to eating the garbage of the town, but there seems to be no good reason why the machinery should have been allowed to stand unguarded and unprotected in a salt marsh, when there are many empty sheds over which the Territory has control, to store it in.

This matter was brought up at the Board of Health yesterday afternoon and commented on in very strong language. Dr. Pratt, executive officer of the board, said the machinery was in a way to deteriorate, but that he had made sundry requests upon the Public Works Department to have the material removed to a guarded place.

He had seen the property earlier in the day in the same place and in the same condition. He suggested that the board appoint a committee to wait upon the Superintendent of Public Works and ask that the property be taken care of.

Dr. Cooper wanted to know to what possible use such a valuable lot of machinery could be put to in a salt marsh. If it couldn't be used it should be stored away. He moved that a committee be appointed with the president as one of the committee. Attorney Dole was selected as another member. An effort will be made to secure an early appropriation to have a building erected over the machinery and the crematory put into operation.

AT THE FISHMARKET.

Men Who Cooked Upon the Sidewalk Were Fined Yesterday.

Six Chinamen who have been in the habit for some time past of preparing their morning meals on stoves placed on the pavement in front of the Fish market were arrested yesterday morning for obstructing the sidewalk.

This will necessitate some new domestic arrangement among the Chinese fishermen. They have been heretofore in the habit of appointing a few of their number to prepare the meal for the entire force, and the sidewalk was resorted to, as the big market contained no place suitable for the preparation of the meal.

The six sidewalk cooks were arraigned in court and fined $2 each. They said they did not know it was offensive, and said they would not do it again.

Judge Wilcox remarked that he had observed that several Chinamen were accustomed to sleep upon the stairs in the market, and as the condition of things was not likely to be improved thereby, something would have to be done in the matter.

COFFEE AND LAW.

J. C. Cohen Wants His Property Back in Good Shape.

The Customs Bureau and J. C. Cohen are in the midst of an interesting dispute. High Sheriff Brown was called into the matter and a suit will probably result. Cohen came out victorious in a suit over a shipment of coffee, which had been consigned to him. The coffee was seized at the time of a former suit, and has been held in custody ever since. When Attorney General Dole finally gave Cohen an order for the coffee, it was turned over to him in a bad state of preservation. Mr. Cohen claims that the coffee is totally ruined, as is also a large number of cups and saucers which were shipped as a prize. The broken crockery and the damaged coffee aggregate a total of $636.10 loss, according to the estimation of Mr. Cohen. As the damage was incurred under the Hawaiian Republic rule the matter is still more complicated, Cohen will probably sue the Hawaiian Territory as the successor.

LAMBERT A HERO

Policeman Stops Runaway at Risk of His Own Life.

What might have been a very serious accident was averted yesterday morning by the promptness and courage of Policeman Lambert.

While on duty on Fort street at about 7:30 o'clock he heard the sound of a runaway, and turned about to see a frightened horse dashing down the street, a lady hanging half over the dashboard and trying to free the reins from the horse's tail. A small child was falling from the seat of the buggy. Lambert rushed into the middle of the street, braced himself squarely, and as the horse came up to him grasped the bit firmly, bringing the horse to a standstill. The lady in the buggy was unable to speak and upon the point of fainting. Had it not been for Lambert's coolness and courage, serious consequences would have resulted.

His Grandmother Pays
A little group of five native boys were called before the Court yesterday morning and fined $2 each for a game of "seven-eleven." An aged woman came from behind the rail and taking the required change from the corner of her handkerchief paid for one of the boys. She said she was his grandmother. After giving her last cent for the redemption of her grandchild the old woman led him away, apparently happy and untroubled. The fine of one of the other boys was paid by his mother. The other three are still in jail.

HACKMAN REID OUT.

He Left the Hospital Without Permission Yesterday.

Hackman Reid, who was injured by being thrown from his carriage Thursday, escaped from the hospital yesterday morning about 4 o'clock and has not been seen since. It is believed that the man is suffering from concussion of the brain. He has protested all along that he was not seriously injured, and made two or three unsuccessful attempts to escape before.

Some of his friends believe that he is really in his right mind and able to be about, but the doctors and nurses think that he is still mentally deranged.

BARTLETT'S ANSWER.

He Says His Wife Is the One to Blame for Their Troubles.

Ward S. Bartlett, defendant in the suit for divorce brought against him by his wife, Corinne Bartlett, intends to make a vigorous defense against the charges brought against him in his wife's petition. In his counter affidavit he sets forth the fact that he will deny each and every allegation, which accuse him of continual intemperance and cruelty.

Further he says that instead of his having driven her from his home, as she alleges, he will put in evidence that his wife left of her own volition. It is said that testimony will be adduced at the trial which will sustain the husband's contentions.

TO HOUSE THE PASTOR.

Parsonage for Central Union Church Is Talked of.

There will be a meeting at the Central Union Church after prayer meeting on Wednesday night to consider the matter of securing a new parsonage.

Several members of the church have interested themselves in the matter, able to build upon or already suitably built upon are already selected. If anything definite is decided upon at the meeting a committee will be appointed to act in the matter at once.
